

SPRING WILDFLOWER TRAIL

APRIL 19, 2008

The Washington County Historical Society is hosting a Spring Wildflower Walk at Falling Waters State Park,

*Our guide will be Ms. Debbie Bush Accompanied by Royce Yeomans
Ms. Bush will help identify native plants & wildflowers and share the ways they would have been used.*

The Walk will begin at 10:00 a.m. and end around Noon followed by a Question & Answer Session

Come prepared!

- Where comfortable shoes and clothing
- Bring Your Camera, Binoculars & Curiosity
  - A packed lunch

Attendance is limited to 15-20 people and a RSVP is required as well as pre-payment of the $5.00 to recompense the Guides for fuel.

Attendees will also need to pay admission to Falling Waters State Park,

Debbie Bush is a Creek (Muskogee) Indian whose ancestors were removed to Oklahoma due to the Indian Removal Act of the 1800's. She is a descendent of Paddy & Thomas Carr and Sally B. Harjo of Coweta Town and the Wind People. Debra has committed a lifetime to the service of her people and the study of her culture. She is the co-founder of the North Florida Indian Foundation. She has served as a wellness & Diversity Mentor to Tribal vocational Rehab Programs in the southeast. She is known as a lecturer, writer and teacher of Creek History & Culture.

ADMISSION FEE FOR FALLING WATERS STATE PARK: